Let's Start!

I'm going to do everything I can to get in shape!

Learning Outcome

Describe unusual events through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about staying healthy.
- I can talk about future plans.
- I can talk about my attitudes toward an action.

Ask your partner:

- Do you know of any self-made successful people in your country? What did they do to become successful?
- Do you have any future plans related to your health? What are they?

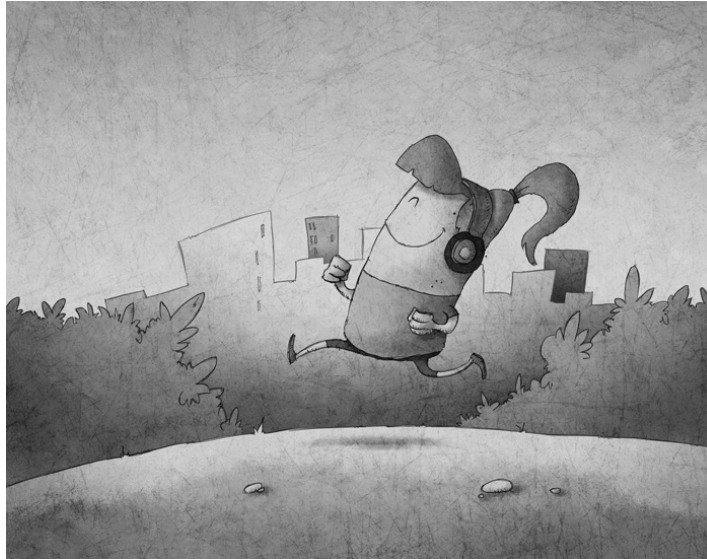

Let's Explore!

Let's read about a self-made athlete. What is he going to do?

* "Self-made" means having become successful through your own efforts.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

I'm in pretty bad physical condition, but I am determined to change that. From now on, I'm going to do everything I can to get in shape. I know that I won't be able to become an athlete overnight, but I am going to turn myself into one, even if it takes time. Nothing is going to stop me. I won't go on being inadequate and lethargic.

Tomorrow morning, I'm going to begin my new way of life. First of all, I'm going to begin running. I plan to run every morning. My friend George is going to run with me. We probably won't be able to run very far at first. I'll be lucky if I can run around the block. That doesn't worry me, because I know that I'll improve. In a couple of months, I'll be able to run a few miles.

There's one more thing that I'm going to do. Next spring, I'm going to buy myself a bicycle. At first, George and I will take short trips. Slowly, the trips will get longer and longer. Eventually, we'll bike from city to city.

I know that running and bike-riding aren't enough, so I have other plans as well. Soon, George and I will have enough money to join a gym. After becoming members, George and I will work out at the gym every afternoon. I'd like to try cross-training. That should help me beef up. Eventually, I'll be a real athlete, and who knows, maybe I'll even begin to enjoy playing sports.

Let's Practice!

Fred's plans to become an athlete are ambitious!

Instructions: Read the text again. Select all the correct answers.

1. Which of these ideas are true?
 - a. He won't become an athlete really soon.
 - b. He'll run alone every morning.
 - c. He's going to buy a bicycle.
 - d. He'll work out at the gym in the mornings.
 - e. He's going to take some time to enjoy playing sports.

Let's Practice!

Sally talks to Joanne about her determination to become healthier!

Instructions: Choose the words from the word bank to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

beef up / physical condition / get in shape / determined / Lethargic

Joanne: So, why do you think you are in bad _____?

Sally: I guess I'm a bit _____. I mean, I don't usually exercise that much.

Joanne: So, do you have any plans about it?

Sally: I know I have to _____. I plan to start exercising with a friend of mine. Joanne: That means you're _____ to make a change!

Sally: Definitely. I even want to _____. I want to look more muscular!

Extension Activity

Let's learn about self-made successes.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

Learning Points

The Future with Will and Be Going To

You can use different tenses to talk about the future.

When you want to talk about facts or things you believe to be true about the future, you use will.

For example:

I will not be able to become an athlete overnight.

When you talk about intentions, you use be going to. These are things that you have thought about and predict for the future.

For example:

I'm going to do everything I can to get in shape.

Will

- I won't go on being inadequate and lethargic.
- I'll be lucky if I can run around the block.
- In a couple of months, I'll be able to run a few miles.

Be Going to

- I'm going to buy myself a bicycle.
 - First of all, I'm going to begin running.
 - My friend George is going to run with me.

Gerunds and Infinitives

A gerund is a verb ending with -ing. Examples: running, breathing, jumping, playing.
An infinitive is when a verb is preceded by the word to. Examples: to run, to breath, to jump, to play.

There are rules about which verbs are followed by gerunds and which verbs are followed by infinitives.

Verbs commonly followed by a gerund:

- like
- love
- enjoy
- dislike
- hate

You use gerunds after prepositions, for example:

After becoming members, George and I will work out at the gym every afternoon.

These are some verbs that are followed by an infinitive:

- hope
- aim
- would like
- decide
- help
- happen

Example:

I plan to run every morning.

You use infinitives after adjectives.

Example:

I am determined to change.

Examples:

- I'd like to try cross-training. That should help me beef up.
- Eventually, I'll be a real athlete, and who knows, maybe I'll even begin to enjoy playing sports.
- I'm in pretty bad physical condition, but I am determined to change that.
- I plan to run every morning.
